

“Cooking is very close to painting. When you are making a dish you add a little of this and a little of that...it's like mixing paints.”

At the age of six I wanted to be a cook. At seven I wanted to be Napoleon. And my ambition has been growing steadily ever since. What is Surrealism? ...surrealism is myself. The only difference between a madman and myself is that I am not mad! The true painter must be able, with the most usual things to have the most unusual ideas. Nobody before me had the idea of painting a soft watch. How you dress is vital for success. I've rarely sunk to the level of wearing civilian clothes. I'll always go in Dalí uniform. Beyond imagination there's flair and instinct.

do not understand why, when I ask for a grilled lobster in a restaurant, I am never served a cooked telephone. I start calling myself a genius to impress people, and I ended up being one. I don't know what would become of me without my extraordinary, fabulous capacity for invention, which enables me to survive in spite of everything. ... my painting is like an iceberg where only a tenth of its volume is visible. The difference between false memories and true ones is the same as for jewels: it is always the false one

“The two most fortunate things that could happen to a person are, first to be Spanish, and second to be named Salvador Dalí. These two things have happened to me.”
